THE LASSO STAFF

This, our book, is a collection of our school memories for the year 1948-49. It has been said that memories are like the leaves of a tree. They bud, become blooms, begin to die and finally drift away. We are striving in the following pages to present the school life at ole Rich Valley High. We greet you, our schoolmates, with a friendly feeling which may hold us together in the years to come. We trust that in portraying the school life as we see it, our surroundings, ourselves and our play, that we may form stronger links in our friendship chain. Rich Valley is linked to the past and on into the future.

MOTTO

"He gave to Heaven 'twas all he had—a Friend"

CLASS POEM

*"It seems 'twas only yesterday
As eager Freshmen we,
Assembled in our chosen groups,
To learn, to look and to see.*

*The years have swiftly passed by,
Since on that remembered day,
And now we are Seniors proud,
Reaching the end of the way.*

*Some say that they are happy,
When this phase of life is spun,
It seems that I can't quite agree,
I'm not so glad it has run.*

*The time, the hour is almost here,
To say goodbye to friends,
We'll think of you and wish to be,
With you when a school year begins.*

*And now we sit in numbered seats
Fifty in number are we,
Clad in our gowns of blue and white,
Wondering what next will be.*

*Even though we'll be miles apart
Our thoughts still linger yet,
In memories of our teachers dear;
Those things we won't forget."*

—DORIS MALOYED

CLASS SONG

FAREWELL

TUNE—"THE OLD REFRAIN"

*"Now we must say farewell to those we love,
We soon are leaving here to go away.
We bid you all farewell, a last goodbye;
Our work is ended now and we must leave.
We think of by-gone days we have spent here
Where happiness and joy were everywhere.*

*Our high school days once more come back to us,
Those early years in thought, we see again.
It was our teachers taught us how to sing—
and to their memory today we cling.
We bid you all farewell, a last goodbye.
Farewell, dear friends, farewell we sing."*

HISTORY OF THE SENIOR CLASS

We, the Senior Class of 1949, entered Rich Valley High School on September 7, 1944. Filled with anticipation and enthusiasm for the beginning of our high school career, we, the eighty-nine freshmen, assembled in the auditorium. Our new principal, Mr. A. P. Levicki, who was entering Rich Valley for the first time, assigned us to our homerooms. We were divided into two sections, "A" to "H" in Section A with Mr. Eugene Orr as sponsor, and the remainder of the students was placed in Section B with Mrs. A. P. Levicki as sponsor. We soon became adjusted to our schedules and began to enjoy our high school work. One of the highlights of the year was the crowning of Nellie McGuire as queen of THE LASSO.

Our sophomore year began minus thirty who had fallen by the wayside. Our sponsors were Miss Helen Callihan, who had forty-five of us, and Miss Glenna DeBord, who had the remaining ten. We began to participate in various clubs namely: The Beta, F.F.A., F.H.A. and Music Club. Also, many of our members became members of the basketball and football squads. During this year we realized the importance of our high school education.

When the bell rang on September 6, 1947, we, as Juniors, were joined by eleven students from Tannersville making our class enrollment fifty. We were delighted to have Mr. F. M. Eversole, our beloved Math teacher, as our sponsor. We were very pleased that Jolene Parks, a member of our class, was awarded first place in the Beauty Contest and Melba Rogers, another Junior, won second honors. We gave the Seniors the annual banquet in May. Sam Myers, our class president, was assistant editor of the Round-Up, our school paper. Our Junior year was one of the happiest and most profitable years we had experienced.

This year fifty of us, twenty-five girls and twenty-five boys, returned as Seniors. We were glad to have Mrs. M. M. Lewis, our sponsor. This year Alven Ward and Sam Myers were captains of both the basketball and football teams. We, in cooperation with the Juniors, are editing a school paper. We are greatly disappointed at not being able to receive our class rings until April. We have enjoyed our high school career and we approach the end of it with sadness because of the parting. We are proud to have been a part of the Rich Valley High School.

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

We, the 1949 graduating class of the Rich Valley High School, in the county of Smyth and the State of Virginia, being about to pass out of this sphere of education, in full possession of a crammed mind, well-trained memory and understanding, do hereby leave the following things, as we sadly depart, to you, our underclassmen to use, to develop and to help you achieve your ambitions and success. May you use them to the best of your ability in solemn reverence to us, the foregoing givers.

To Alma Kegley, John Anderson leaves his "horse laugh."

To Clarence Kinder, Robert Anderson gives his popularity with the girls on the Ridge Bus.

To Buddy Henegar, Bernice Beavers wills her slow motions.

To Betty Martin, Wanda Bowling gives her shyness. To Kathleen Doane, C. P. Brickey leaves his youth and his tendency to be a few steps behind everybody else.

To Douglas Maloyed, J. W. Buchanan wills his place on the Honor Roll—and his "curls" to the girls.

To Eunice Catron, Charlotte Burgess leaves her attractiveness and quiet manners.

To Pearl Rowland, Ferne Burnop wills her ability to make good grades and to be an honor student.

To Lois Carter, Carra Call gives her love for good books.

To Eugene Hess, Jack Campbell wills his enthusiasm over school work.

To Jean Jones, Cecil Carter leaves his love for sleeping in Government class.

To Helen McAllister, Naomi Catron gives freely her ruler, compass and protractor. Oh yes, she leaves her old Geometry book, too.

To Nellie Chapman, Peggy DeBusk leaves her love for "Shrimp" Buchanan with the reservation that a certain sophomore doesn't become full possessor.

To Agnes Maloyed, Clarence Frye wills his quietness and his soft "chuckles."

To Charles Crabtree, Dewey Frye gives freely all his oral reports and the right to give them in class.

To Peggy Stephenson, Gladys Frye leaves her ability to chew gum.

To Alverta Abel, Melba Frye wills her success in library work.

To Eugene Gillespie, Harold Gillespie leaves his sincere love for playing football.

To Clara Necessary, Ruben Gillespie gives his place on the basketball team.

To Helen Heath, Philander Griffiths wills his Ernest Tubbs voice.

To Dallas McAllister, Gordon Hagy bequeaths all his girl friends and his love for them. (Now, isn't he generous?)

To Zelda Routh, Madeline Harris leaves her high ideals and day dreams. Commence, Zelda, air castles are not made in a day.

To Eunice Olinger, Jean Henderson leaves her height for she feels it would come in handy sometimes.

To Melba Bowling, James Kestner gives his witty remarks and love for jokes. This must be some collection, for he has gathered them for four long years at Rich Valley.

To Betty Whitley, Mary Ruth Louthen leaves her school-girlish figure.

To James Harris, Doris Maloyed wills her sweet disposition, good manners and politeness to teachers.

To Malcolm McAllister, Thomas Mash gives his shyness and good looks about which certain girls are just crazy.

To Jean Burgess, Haskell McAllister bequeaths his bright blue eyes because he's afraid to leave them to Eunice.

To Gunnar French, Herbert McAllister leaves his seat in all his classes—but never his girl; the one thing which we couldn't get him to give away.

To Roy Barrett, Donald McCready wills his big mouth, but warns him not to use it. Demerits are costly.

To Janie Gillespie, Nellie McGuire gives her desire to be a good basketball player, hoping it will get her a berth on the team.

To Eugene Blevins, Willis Moore leaves his place in the cafeteria hoping he will get enough to eat.

To A. B. Taylor, Sam Myers wills his reputation as a football star. (Were you a star in basketball, Sam?)

To Eunice Turley, June Neal bequeaths her neatness and her love for her teachers.

To Glennford Surber, Bobby Necessary gives his "cuteness" and bluffing ability. (Watch out—don't be caught.)

To Mary Virginia Coe, Doris Olinger leaves her pretty complexion.

To Otis Necessary, Merle Osborne leaves all his good ole school day memories.

To Roscoe Kesner, Bobby Penland wills his flashy brown eyes and his favor with the girls.

To Janie Griffiths, Patsy Pratt gives her pleasant disposition since it well matches the pleasing one she already possesses.

To Carrie Call, Ruth Robbins bequeaths her quietness and blond hair. With this next year, Carrie, you'll be really boisterous.

To Marie Taylor, Bobbie Rogers leaves her popularity with the boys and girls.

To Phillis DeBord, Peggy Smith wills her love for giggling and whispering during classes.

To Louise Buchanan, Dorothy Spence gives her congeniality in working well with others.

To Betty Tate Taylor, Baxter Surber bequeaths his skill in understanding and solving geometry problems. This gift is something!

To Mary Evelyn Coe, Jeanette Surber leaves her love for having fun.

To Kathleen French, Bernelle Surber wills her dignity and desire for further knowledge.

To Dorothy Bise, Charles Vermillion leaves his ability for passing two English courses during one year.

To Agnes Call, Alven Ward gives his love—and wishes to make sure no one else gets it! Keep and treasure this token.

And I, Jolene Parks, will my talkative ability to the quietest Junior who will need it in arguing his way through the Senior Class next year. (I hope that it isn't a wee bit worn after I've used it for four years.)

THE PROPHECY

The newspaper which I held in my hand caught my eye—The New York World Tribune—June 9, 1959. Why I must have been dozing as I roared across the vast plains of Kansas on my way to attend a class reunion of the Rich Valley graduates—Class of 1949!

The headlines loomed before my vision—"State Senator Sam Myers Wins Landslide." My! What a period of ten years could do for a person. The article read that Sam had just defeated his dear classmate, Alven Ward, in a close race. Jeanette Surber had already been selected as his private secretary.

I read farther that Robert Anderson was manager of the U-Slip-Up Banana Plantation and seemed to be in his seventh heaven.

A very striking ad caught my attention of the Dress Shop managed by Madeline Harris, who designs and models her own creations. There's also Jolene Parks who assists in the advertising department.

The World News reporter's name was most familiar—that of Baxter Surber who is stationed in London.

The social page carried a big review of the marriage of Clarence Frye to a nationally known debutante. (My! We didn't know things back at ole R. V., did we?)

The sports editor, J. W. Buchanan, was throwing all the roses he could get to Ruben Gillespie, head coach at Notre Dame, and to his assistant, Bobby Necessary, who has changed practically all the old rules.

Ferne Burnop's name was mentioned as being elected head of a girls' school in Montana.

I closed my eyes and slept until I landed at Tri-City Air Port. When I embarked, I recognized the neat, attractive stewardess, Wanda Bowling, and the pilot, Thomas Mash. How little did I dream of their guiding me through the clouds to bring me home again.

The reunion was most successful—such as reunions go. The same inevitable question was being asked over and over, "Where's so and so?" "What's she doing?"

C. P. Brickey had just won the Kentucky Derby so he was passing out dollar bills as souvenirs. And there was Gladys Frye who works as head nurse at Walter Reed Hospital assisted by Mary Ruth Louthen and Carra Call. Ruth Robbins arrived in a maroon convertible Buick which she had won from the Beauty soap contest. I found Jack Campbell, Merle Osborne, Herbert McAllister and Cecil Carter conferring on their present agricultural problems in raising cigarettes ready for market. News came that Gordon Hagy couldn't attend because he was head man at the Ringling Bros. Circus, but generous ole Totsy sent each of us free tickets for a performance. Naomi Catron and Doris Olinger were married and teaching in a nursery school in Salt Lake City. Dewey Frye seemed quite prosperous having established himself in business—Frye Baby Sitters, Inc. Remember Charles Vermillion? He is working with the F.B.I. in New York. Nellie McGuire and Doris Maloyed are each working as private secretaries in Washington.

Philander Griffiths has gone to Movieland. He is head producer of the Follies of '59. Oh! he is the new dancing sensation who kept all his dancing talents so well hidden in high school days.

"What is Donald McCready doing?" He lives in the far northern woods with his wife. "He has just been in but he couldn't let cold weather catch him here, so he left."

I was so glad to see that Bobby Rogers was head cheerleader for the Dodgers and now she can yell to her heart's delight. Bobby Penland, also with the Dodgers, has been promoted from bat boy to official home-plate duster.

Betty Taylor is very happy in a little rose-covered cottage in Tazewell County. Harold Gillespie, that good-natured Senior of '49, is now "Life" on the program, "Life Can Be Beautiful." Melba Frye left for Hollywood the week before for a screen test in her new picture, "Now Is the Minute." Peggy DeBusk, now national director of Girl Scouts, had gone to Switzerland to a conference and couldn't be present, and Bernelle Surber was also on her way to Brazil as secretary to the Ambassador. The news was heralded of June Neal's success in the musical world. She had just given a rendition at the White House and was received most graciously. Peggy Smith served as my secretary during the reunion, having come from Baltimore to the meeting.

Everyone was talking about the interior decorating being done by Jean Henderson of Lord and Taylor, New York.

Some of my classmates had married. James Kestner, for instance, who said, "It is a wonderful institution." Charlotte Burgess spoke of her business in selling insurance. Bernice Bevers, an Army nurse, is stationed in Germany so she could not attend. Also, Willis Moore, a head dentist in Japan, sent his regrets. Haskell McAllister furnished free cokes for the occasion from his local drugstore on the corner. John Anderson, a big wheel in the industrial world, was wearing a bow tie and proudly carrying his cane. His private secretary, Dorothy Spence, looked as prosperous as he.

Such was the personage of the Class of '49. How I wish I could go on and tell more, but my youngest son, who has to be bathed and fed, and was crying lustily and awakened me from my sweet dreams. Anyway I wish that each action, if pleasant, may come to life with true characterization of health, success and happiness.
